

Introduction to Nature Writing at Red Rock Canyon

We will learn to write about the natural world using sensory details and storytelling techniques.

Each session will include short writing exercises, group discussions, and selected readings from notable American nature writers. Participants may share their own writing.

Depending on the group's interest we will experiment with different types of nature writing such as creative non-fiction, short story, memoir, poetry, or simply writing for one's own enjoyment.

Instructor: Cheryl has been a creative writing instructor for Osher's Life Long Learning Institute at Cal State San Bernardino for six years.
